I the Commonwealth conference held in,

London to find ways and means of stabilising the future of south and southeast Asia achieved only partial success.

Agreement on a six-year economic rehabilitation plan was one positive outcome, but the value of this appears to be qualified by the reluctance of the beneficiary countries to give any assurances as to future political policy.

Britain and Australia, as the prime sponsors of the rehabilitation scheme have, from the outset, made it clear that they regard any expensive programme to which they would inevitably be financially committed as complementary to the pursuance by the beneficiary countries of a determined anti-Communist political policy. Now, it transpires, that some of these Asian countries, while only too happy to accept economic assistance in the way of foreign capital investment and the provision of essential consumer commodities, are not so willing to accept obligations of pursuing a well-defined political policy designed to guarantee the permanent success of a long-term economic assistance plan. The full and willing co-operation of the participating countries is a prime factor in such a vast development and mutally-protective scheme as that envisaged at the London

Commonwealth conference; nothing intentions of the economic-aid scheme.

The Democracies now generally accept the premise that the most effective and permanent way of combatting Communism is to make Communism economically unnecessary. Thus, by raising living standards, ensuring full employment, guaranteeing financial stability, Communism is denied the natural roots from which it thrives and becomes discredited because it no longer has any valid reason for existence, either as an economic, political or moral way of life. It is belief in this theory that has guided members of the British Commonwealth to make a generous offer of economic and financial aid to backward countries in south and southeast Asia. But, simultaneously, recognition is demanded of the fact that other positive measures are necessary to ensure that Communism shall not thrive within those countries. And these are measures which can only be taken, and must be self-imposed, by the countries individually. They involve political policies, both internally and in foreign relations, and it is only reasonable to ask and to expect that an agreed-upon line of policy shall be followed by all partners in the Asia economic development scheme.

Any inconsistency in this direction cannot fall to jeopardise a six-year plan such as that envisaged; moreover, if guarantees in this connection are not forthcoming,

It is unlikely that the United States will be prepared to render financial assistance without which the scheme will be ham-strung. In showing willingness to accept much, the southeast Asian countries are expected to display equal willingness to give a little in return—a firm, ununimous affirmation of anti-Communist principles, backed by a political policy consistent with those principles.

Government spokesman sold Communist agents were trying to infiltrate Turkey by posing as refugees.

Bulgarian insistence on the mass exodus of 250,000 Turks probably will scriously disturb Turkey's economy, chiefly because the emigrants were prevented from taking with a trem more than their personal belongings. Earlier this year, Sofia also charged Turkey, with negligence in fulfilling obligations to assure "franquillity and security of Bulgarian Legations and Consulates in Turkey."

Meanwhile, Moscow Radio reported from Sofia that the Bulgarian Foreign Minister had handed a note to the Yugoslav Ambassador, protecting that Bulgarian frontier patrols were fired on by Yugoslavs.

WHITE ROSE IS NOW FAVOURITE FOR THE CESAREWITCH HANDICAP

London, Oct. 8.

M. Marcel Boussac's filly, White Rose, is the present favourite for the Cesarewitch Handicap, to be run at Newmarket over two and a quarter miles next Wednesday.

Whether or not she will occupy this position in the betting market when the race starts is a matter for conjecture, as only a few points separate her from the four market rivals, consisting of last year's winner, Strathspey, Lord Astor's French Squadron, to be ridden by the Champion jockey, Gordon Richards, and the two three-year-old colts, High Forest, the hope of the North, and Come to Good from the clever Manton stable of George Todd.

White Rose is out of that brilliant French mare, Astronomie, and sired by an equally fine stallion, Goya. She is to be ridden by the big race "master," the Australian-born Rae Johnstone. A four-year-old, she is now in the stable of Harry Wragg at Newmarket .

Add to those facts that she is the sole entry of "Lucky" M. Marcel Boussac and it can be seen why she is the favourite.

Tourney Tension Tells on Players

By OSWALD JACOBY

IN the tension of tournament A play many strange contracts and stranger lines of play develop. Players who are models of caution suddenly blossom out with risky bids and foolhardy plays. Players who are known suddenly dry up and allow the opponents to steal the hand at seme ridiculously low contract:

Today's hand, for example, was played in a recent tournament in a way that would surprise you unless you were used to the strange things that happen to good players when the going gets tough.

The hand was bid to six sendes at several tables. This was an excellent contract, but rather difficult to reach.

DULLES EXPLAINS U.S. PLAN FOR UNITED NATIONS

Flushing Meadow, Oct. 8. Mr John Foster Dulles, American delegate to the United Nations, said today that the U.S. proposal to strengthen the General Assembly as an effective weapon against aggression was not intended to "bypass, weaken or replace the Security Council."

Mr Dulles, leading Republican Party adviser to the State Department, said that it was "an effort to have additional machinery available in the event the Security Council is unable to fulfil its primary responsibilities."
